

The Further Rad Adventures of Joey Jeramiah in T.O.

The Continuing Adventures of Joey Jeramiah, Scene Legend

The Continuing GTA Adventures of Joey Jeramiah, Scene Legend!

The Further Rad Adventures of Joey Jeramiah, Scene Legend, of Toronto

Joey Jeramiah: Scene Pariah

- Joey
- Snake
- Caitlin
- His teenaged nephew. Not the brightest kid, but well-intended.
- His sister who lives in Guelph. Career serving staff. Side hustle selling cosmetics and trinkets on FB marketplace. Knows the ins and outs of Value Village.
- Call centre bros
- Used car sales bros
- Punk and postpunk TO bros
- The Mayor of Toronto Rob Ford
- The Santa Clause Killer
- Canadian indie rock and adjacent people

==

1. The episode where he drunk dials Caitlin five times in his early forties and she takes out a restraining order.
2. The episode where he insinuates that he knew about the activities of The Santa Clause Killer before the dude was caught.
3. The episode where he nearly gets in a fistfight defending Drake against Kendrick at a Mississauga sports bar.
4. The episode where he's pretty sure he saw Bruce McDonald from Kids in the Hall like three times in four months at a Yuk Yuk's downtown or some shit, except it was in 1993 and the episode is filmed from the vantage point of 2012 cause at that point he's still talking about it!
5. The episode where he sees Sum 41 open for Treble Charger and talks about it for the next five years!
6. The episode where he unsuccessfully tries to get a job as a school crossing guard with the GTA school catchment serving the East York neighborhoods where Degrassi Jr High was filmed!
7. The episode where he is the first human in their thirties to ever visit Ripley's Aquarium while peaking on mushrooms! He talks to a dolphin, convinced it's post-Much VJ personality Rick "The Temp" Campanelli!

8. The episode where he spends a summer giving his teenaged nephew's credit card info to order a lot of takeout food and alcohol and a bunch of hotel bills! Which of course he pays back! Cause he's a good guy. Scene legend, right?
9. The episode where he decides to remarket illegal cellphones on Amazon for five months.
10. The episode where Joey is briefly sent to the local in-care mental health unit around Danforth.
11. The episode where Joey is convinced the person with whom he is smoking crack in Scarborough is the Mayor of Toronto Rob Ford, tries to check himself into a mental care facility, and is denied services.
12. The episode where he spends two years studying retail management at Seneca College, graduates, and the graduation is the last time he sees his dad.
13. The episode where Joey and Snake get uncomfortably afternoon drunk at an Etobicoke sports bar and speak about Wheels sadly in their mid-thirties and then never hang out again!
14. The episode where he tries getting a job at a payday loan, but in fact he negatively attracts the attention of the aging security officer watching the place
15. The episode where he drunkenly karaoke sings along to Teenaged Head after work for like four songs on Wednesday night or some shit in 2004! And then the dudes from Teenaged Head show up and blow his mind! But not with their singing, wink-wink nudge-nudge!
16. The episode where Joey Joe gets ejected by security from Scotiabank arena for yelling at hockey players or some shit! Scene legend! He's heard to be yelling as he's escorted out: WHEELS WAS MY BOY, MAN
17. The episode where he tries canoeing with some bros from the call centre somewhere in the Muskoka and it turns into a life-or-death struggle against a canoe
18. The episode where he goes to a different southern Ontario Ikea every single day for like a month. Just cause he likes to wander around by himself looking at things. He likes the cafeteria meatballs a little too much!
19. The episode where "being asked to leave by security" becomes a theme in his life, weirdly, for more than a year! He was noted to be heard while being escorted out of a Scarborough Sportchek: FUCK ALL Y'ALL IF YOU DIDN'T KNOW WHEELS, MAN
20. The episode where he spends a full year trying to care about Toronto FC soccer, because it seems like the right thing to do

21. The episode where he tries to get his teenaged nephew into a publicly funded GTA area Catholic School but he can't cause he's not considered Catholic enough, somehow
 22. The episode where he quietly and then not so quietly develops an online gambling problem sponsored by the Ontario Lottery Corporation to the point that he gets a second warning at his call centre job!
 23. The episode where he goes and sees Mike Bullard Live! And it slays!
 24. The episode where he works as a staffer at Exclaim! for like six months
 25. The episode where he works at a used car dealership in North York with one of the dudes from Anvil for nearly two years, but he doesn't find out about it until his last day at work!
 26. The episode where he is the first person ever in Toronto history to be physically assaulted by a Tesla owner for keying a Tesla! But he won't be the last, probably!
 27. The episode where he skateboards exactly five times and commits the results to a VHS handcam recording! He's probably good at it!
 28. The episode where he dates an International Person for six months and then talks about it for five years!
 29. The episode where he low-ley stalks MuchMusic legend Steve Anthony but during Steve's CP24 years.
 30. The episode where he can't park his car anywhere close to the store where he works cause he promised Snake he's stop parking near the school so he spends an entire episode driving around Orangeville depressed and decides to skip work and play video games for the rest of the day!
- Land Investment Purchase in Muskoka Opportunity Man (LIPI-MOM) episode #1, 2. 3. Basically, he almost gets killed because of his dickhead business partners sketchy associates. He ends up being driven off the side of a Durham region sideroad by two dudes in a black pickup truck. He's given to know if he tries to sell land that doesn't belong to him again, he will be physically inconvenienced. Significantly so.